SAY THE SPECIAL COMMITTEE vestigate the Cass-Charges of Neglect of Duty, Incompetence and Official Mis-

Mesars. George W. Woods, Louis Delbrugg and J. W. Commerford, the three members of the Board of County Commissioners appointed on the special committee to inve tig-te the official conduct of Michael Stein, sterday in the Committee room at the Court House, to take trainingly in the case. The seasions were held with open doors, and Mr. Hit in was piesent in person and represented by Hon, J. J. Woods as his attorney. The interests of the county were in charge of Hon. W. P. Hubbard and Pressouting Attorney Jordan. The committee met at I a. M., and continued in session until nearly 6 in the evening, with a recess for dinner At 7 o'clock the members again met with closed door, to presser the report to the doubted doors, to prepare the report to the Board. This work was not finished when they adjourned till Friday evening next when the report will be prepared and signed THE TESTIMONY.

THE TESTIMONY.

Capt. Planksy, Superintendent of the Infarmery, was the first witness. All the witnesses were sworn by Clerk Woods. The Captain's story is already familiar to the public, having first been published in the INTELLORSEER. His testimony was that Mr. Stein, in company with a man whose face he could not see on account of a slouch cap or hat, had come to the Infirmary one night in June last with an infaut, which they had left with him. Mr. Stein told the witness that the child was of good stock, that its mother had bean unfortunate, and to conceal her shame the child had been sent to the Poor House. Mr. Stein also said, "If I were to tell you the name of its parents you would know them ms well as I cu. This man with me has given ms $25 and promised to give he more. I will turn the money over to the proper authorities." The child was evidenty the inheritor of a leathened disasse, and died in a few cays.

Bony Alwinger, of East Wheeling, testined that Mr. Stein had said to him "that the child was of aristocratic parentage, and if he would tell me the names of its parents I would know them as well as he."

Charles Hoffman, of Fulton, said he had heard Stein tell Capt. Plankey that the child's name wer Winesburg.

Commissioner Delbrugge said he had had a name wes Winesburg.

Commissioner Delbrugge said he had had talk with Mr. Stein, and the latter had re talk with Mr. Stein, and the inter has re-marked that the $25 had been given him as a present, and he could do what he please, with it, and that if "they made him mad" he would give it to the Calidren's Home in-stead of to the county authorities.

STRIN'S STORY.

Mr. Stein him elf took the stand. He said ast two men came to him on Sunday morn-ag and told him about the child, and asked or a permit for its admission to the Infirmary. did not then conclude to give them purned them from n.s. know, who the now, and does not now know, who the ents of the child were. After the conclusion of the testimony, a desire was expressed by the committee to hear the case argued by counsel. They desired to have their views of the evidence and its force under the law. Accordingly, Mr. Jordan opened the argument, holding that the evidence established the fact that Mr. Stein had been guitry of neglect of duty, in commelence and official misconduct. Mr the evidence established the lact time. Askeln had been guilty of neglect of duty, incompelence and official misconduct. He then touched extensively on the disputed question—the dâte of the organization of the ther singing societies of the city. In handling the topic he confined his remarks more especially to the occurrences during the past year, relating to this subject—the two excursions to the Buffalo Sen perfest and the offer of the Masunerchor after that to the other societies to present the disputed question to three impartial men for settlement. In the course of his remarks he introduced several letters that had passed between the societies on the subject.

At the conclusion of the remarks, the active membes of the society, headed by Vice President Henry Leiz, very much to Mr. Arbens's surprise, advanced to the stage and presented him with a handsome gold-headed abony cane, appropriately engraved. It was a well deserved testimonial of the hard work that has been done by Mr. Arbens for the society and much have been extremely gratifying to him. It was a genuine surprise to him, as was evinced by the embarrassed manner in which he returned his thanks.

After this, dancing was resumed and kept up for several hours, occasionally interrupted by a chrus from the society. Transfers Recorded.

The most important performance of the evening, and the one which everybody anticipated most eagerly, was the balcony scene from "Romeo and Juliet." Mr. Ed Larkin personated Romeo and Miss Rena House Juliet. Both wors constumes made for them and for this occasion by a New York theatrical costumer, and the scene was set under the experienced direction of Will Richardson, the size carpenter. The reading and business of both parts was extremely well done, and the hearty appliance which greeled the performance was deserved. The scene is a difficult one to enact, and the undertaking was a bold one. Its access hodes well for the like success of the still bolder undertaking now on the tapis, the rendition of "Hamlet, Prince of Denmark," by amateurs, with Mr. Larkin as "the melancholy Dane" and Miss Houss as Ophelia.

Taken as a whole the performance last night was a brilliant success.
